

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

This invention describes methods of vaccination for the effective generation of an antigen-specific immune response. More particularly, this invention describes the use of heterologous vaccination vectors for eliciting an enhanced boosting immunization response. Methods of treatment and prevention of diseases using the vaccination schemes of the invention are also provided.